But Nehemiah was a Jew; and could not forget his own people. When news came to min of the desperate plight of Jerusalem, and of his compatriots who had returned to the Land of Promise, his very face showed his grief. He was the sort of really big man who gives earnest thought to the people's welfare. Thank God, there always have

He Did Something About It. As Armenians and Assyrians in our western world grieve over the misfortunes of their kindred abroad, and sacrificially send them aid, so Nehemiah mourned over the sufferings of his people in Juda Even the king noticed his altered looks, and asked the reason. Nehemiah's worrying had not been vague and footless sentimentality; he had carefully thought out a plan for helping. So he boldly asked the king for permission to go to Jerusalem, and for authority to deal with the situation. All hon-or to the man who, in an emergency, does something about it. He is of the Nehemiah breed.

Walk Around The Walls. Since the capture of Jerusa-lem by the British, the walls of Jerusalem have been so repaired that anybody may walk on their top, in a complete circuit of the city. No so in Nehemiah's day, when he set himself secretly, as his first task, to circumambulate the city. He was the sort of hard-headed person who looks up facts for himself. He found the going hard, for the walls were in ruins, with all the gates destroyed.

Worse yet, he saw the people poor and discouraged, and exploited by the rich nobles. Bad as was the case of the city's ramparts, the lot of the human beings was still more pitiable.

Then Nehemiah made himself known. He fired the hearts of he people with a renewal of eir old purpose. Drastically, he olished their social and ecomic abuses, ending the usury under which they groaned. High and low were inspired to rebuild Jerusalem's walls. Doubtless this incident was the basis of William Blake's lines, a fitting battle hymn for the better day, which the English love to sing:

Nor shall my sword sleep in my Until we have built Jerusalem,

In England's green and pleasant land." Self Interest and Public Service.
With a genius for organization, and a deep insight into human motives, Nehemiah set the peohis own house. He was not dealing with angels, but with ordinary men and women, in whom self-interest was strong. He made plain the individual advantage of the public project; and that a man best serves him-self when he works for the common cause.

Every word spoken for justice and righteousness, every vote cast for the common welfare, every dollar given for real relief, every service rendered in neigh-borliness, is at the same time an effort put forth in behalf of one's God, one's home and one's family. It was the proud and idle selfists of France before the revolution, and of Russia before the rise of the bolsheviks, who brought complete disaster to themselves, as well as to their countries. No prosperous person today can afford, even on the lowest plane of thinking, to with-hold his best powers from the

This is no pacifist Lesson. It is full of fighting, in the name of the Lord and of the defense of home. Nehemiah turned every of home. Nenemian turned every citizen of Jerusalem into a sol-dier, as well as into a worker. Foes lay in wait on every hand, ruthless in the use of any weap-on that would hinder reform recovery in Jerusalem. It and recovery in Jerusalem 12 is foolish to assume that every-body favors a good cause because it is good. Sooner or later, every progressive movement runs against active opposition that up against active opposition that calls for fighting.

So Nehemiah's Jews made their prayer and set their watch, in true faith and works—the twin wings by which every life and project rise. With trowel and word the rebuilding of the walls went forward. Workers were all transa, and behind them were armed, and behind them were set more fully equipped warriors.

What a leader they had!—a very general for organization, a prophet, for inspiration, a Sparfor self-denying industry Out of his own resources the new governor supported him-

CONFUSION ON MATTER OF OBTAINING VOTING CERTIFI-CATES CLEARED UP

Persons over 60 years of age, Jan. 1, 1935, who do not reside in a city with more than 10,000 population "are not required to obtain exemption certificates in order to vote", according to a let-ter received Tuesday by R. L. Harris, assessor-collector of taxes for Navarro county, from George H. Sheppard, state comptroller, in answer to a direct query by Harris on this proposal, according to an announcement Tuesday. There has been considerable confusion along this line and many persons have been under the impression that no one over 60 years of age could vote without their exemp-tion certificates. Persons over 60 years of age residing in Corsicana must have exemption because Cor-sicana has more than 10,000 population, but outside of the four wards in Corsicana, the exemp-tions for overs are not required, Assessor-Collector Harris and tions for overs are not required, Assessor-Collector Harris and County Judge C. By NATHAN ROBERTSON Associated Press Staff Writer WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(P)—Semi-official estimates on unemployment, which have been in use for some time by the government but were kept a secret until today, declare that 10,915,000 persons were jobless last September. Although 5,000,000 persons had found work by September accord-ing to the estimate, the unemploy-ment rolls had been cut little more than 4,000,000 because nearly a million new recruits were added to the employable population be-tween March, 1933, and September. COUNTY PROJECTS SEEM BE FAVORED WHILE CITY LAGS

DOZENS OF MEN RESIDING IN CORSICANA BADLY IN NEED OF WORK

"No work available" was still the necessary answer made to Ray Morgan, local National Reemployment Service director Wednesday to dozens of men residing in Corsicana or immediate vicinity who wanted jobs and needed them badlと

A survey of the WPA projects now under way in Navarro coun-ty made Wednesday revealed that grand total of 544 men and women would be at work outside of Corsicana by the end of the week, with approved projects call-ing for 99 more waiting only on formal requisitions, and several formal requisitions, and several other road projects requiring a number of men already given state approval and needing only completion of a few details before work orders could be issued.

On the other hand, the survey revealed that only 216 workers had been called from the list of Construct unamployables, and only Corsicana unemployables, and only one project calling for about 60 men is even visible in the future. A number of other projects have been submitted, including two more storm sewer projects but no more storm sewer projects at no them. The single storm sewer project was approved by state headquarters last week. City of-ficials reported Wednesday that they were prepared to start the storm sewer jobs immediately if approval could could be secured; another project submitted several months ago of relaying and replacing a number of water lines in the city has never been ap-proved or rejected.

1625 Employables In County. According to the best available information, there were 1625 employables on the Navarro county relief rolls when the WPA program was started, with the division showing approximately 850 persons needing work in Corsicana or immediate vicinity, and about 775 in other sections of the 775 in other sections of the county. According to these figcounty. According to these figures, there are only about 225 persons outside of Corsicana who are not now at work, with ample projects in sight to use up that entire number. It has already been necessary to shift workers from one community to another nearby on some of the rural projects. With a total of 216 now at work in Corsicana, there still remains some 637 persons badly in need of employment to secure the ne-cessities of life. No explanation has been offered by any group for failure of any of the city projects to be approved, or for the apparent favoritism toward the ounty pojects.

Receive Requisition. A requisition was received Wednesday morning by Mr. Morgan for 30 men to report Saturday for work on the Emhouse-Cunningham lateral road project. This project was approved by state headquarters on November 11, and the superintendent has been named for several days and all procurement department details completed. No reason has been offered for the delay in getting this project started.

For your own treatments, how-ever—use either a muscle oil, olive oil or castor oil, that is, and use it warm after the skin has been cleansed with hot water.

with the tips of the fingers or with a small flat rubber patter.

Tapping is specially good for forehead wrinkles, and for the light wrinkles at the corners of the eyes. However, for the crisscross wrinkles beneath the eyes, massage gently across the lines from the outer part of the eyes towards the nose, using the tips of the fingers. For wrinkles around the mouth you can, if you wish, use the patter, but a little more strenuously than when you used it before.

An even more effective motion is to use the backs of the four fingers, pressing the fingers against the skin over the wrin-

If your trouble is just lack of bust development, build up all the muscles of the chest, ribs, and below the bust, as all these contribute to its support and do something toward filling it out. A gentle massage, using a nour-ishing oil, helps, too; but withal whether it is a small bust or a full one, will remain so finally. It is always possible to dress so that an undersized bust will not be noticed. The way a woman carries herself, also her com-pleted outline of figure, are what ount most.
